Wilson Studies Plan To Release Draftees Earlier

Would Increase Calls To Build Up Ready Reserves

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (A)-Secretary of Defense Wilson disclosed today he is looking into a plan to shorten the military service of draftees but at the same time to increase draft calls in an effort to build up the ready reserves.

Wilson said at a news conference he had in mind letting out some 100,000 draftees after 18 months, instead of the present 24 months. Wilson made it plain that this early release scheme, if adopted at all, would be only temporary, ending before June 1957.

The defense secretary said total strength of the military services would be maintained at the present level of about three million men. In order to keep up this strength while building the ready reserves, he added, monthly draft quotas would have to be raised, possibly

Flood Survey Gets Underway On South Fork

Prevention Plan Being Formulated

MOOREFIELD-Roy Hamilton soil conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, announced a series of meetings on flood prevention for the South Fork area. The meetings will feature a new color movie on watershed programs and will present facts and figures on flood prevention and

Hamilton said the first meeting is scheduled at Peru on Wednesday, February 8, the second at Bass on Thursday, February 9 and the last meeting at the Tannery Church on Friday February 10. All meetings are scheduled

Roy Pink has been employed as enumerator by the Town of Moorefield and the Hardy County Court to make the survey questionnaires up the South Fork watershed. Three types of questionnaires are being filled out to secure data to present to the government Mrs. Elliott to justify the flood prevention program. The questionnaires in-clude damage and potential damage to residences, farms and to businesses. Pink started on the Nurses Club work Tuesday.

Precedent-Setting Deportation Case

During World War II, one of the more infamous names with which every GI was familiar was that of Tokyo Rose. Those who served in the Pacific area were particularly conscious of the American-born traitor who did her best to induce American servicemen to desert.

For the most part, those who heard the Tokyo Rose broadcasts welcomed them as a sort of amusing diversion to the grim harshness of war. Besides, English-speaking broadcasts were a rarity in that

There were others, however, who didn't feel so kindly toward Tokyo Rose and probably would have shot her on the spot if given the chance. Whatever their opinions of her, Americans were unanimous in one thing-they all knew who she

More than a decade has passed since then, but once again Tokyo Rose is destined to become a household topic and probably cause as much controversy as before. After serving a 10-year sentence for treason, with time off for good behavior, Mrs. Iva Ikuko Toguri D'Aquino is, technically, a

But the U. S. government is not finished with her. American officials are taking an unprecedented step in serving Mrs. D'Aquino with a deportation warrant to test the legal question whether a natural-born American can be ordered out of the country.

The government has an excellent motive for wanting Tokyo Rose out of the country, for she certainly has proved herself unworthy of U. S. the United States, some sensationcitizenship. But if Mrs. D'Aquino fights the action al facts have been uncovered which and the government persists, a series of court may have a far-reaching influence fights is in prospect with the Supreme Court, itself, works out in the schools of probably making the final decision.

With the citizenship guarantees in the Constitution to buck and the precedent-setting example since Negro and white children a favorable decision to the government would give, the U.S. is skating on thin ice. However, government attorneys will never have a better example tests in all-white schools in Washof treasonous conduct than this with which to set ington showed that national avera precedent.

Bulganin's Love Letter

Ike Eisenhower is to be congratulated for turning down Bulganin's love letter. He might have sent it back unopened. It was a self-serving document to show "Oh! What a good boy am I!" when, as a matter of fact, he has been acting the very bad boy for months, chasing about Asia, making as much trouble for the United States, as he and his side-kick, Nikita Khrushchev, can. Then he sends a little note saying that a little necking is good for anyone. Eisenhower has taken the only moral step possible, for what Bulganin proposed was not peace but a thwarting of efforts toward peace. Actually, Bulganin and Khrushchev were trying to make a fool of Eisenhower and he was having none of it.

There is a vulgarity in all this which has not been usual in international relations. A communication between sovereigns used to be an important document, written with solemnity and sent from one to the other, with due regard for the courtesy of timing. The Russians sent the love letter to Eisenhower on the eve of Anthony Eden's visit to Washington. To us, on such an occasion, they offer a two-country treaty, clearly an effort to bring about a divorce between the United States and Great Britain. This has been an item of Russian strategy since Yalta when Roosevelt and Stalin held private talks concerning Winston Churchill - not too pleasant comments on Churchill's character and country.

At the time of Yalta, Great Britain was a very weak country, wholly dependent upon the United States. That is not true today. Great Britain has made a remarkable economic recovery and in the politics of the world, the Commonwealth of Nations, which is the remnant of the British Empire, is a potent force and remains a bulwark of our defense against the Soviet Universal State. It was clear at Geneva last summer that Khrushchev and Bulganin were playing a very clever game to isolate the United States from its natural allies. It did not work. It might have worked because of the great anxiety of the American people for peace. What we are approaching in the Eisenhower administration is a doctrine of "Peace with Dignity and Honor." At Yalta and Potsdam, the issue was to discover a way to get along with Soviet Russia which had become difficult since 1943 (Teheran). Subsequently, we pursued a policy of appeasement up to the moment of the Berlin Airlift (1948). Then came an era of confusion, embittered by the Korean and the Indochinese Wars, complicated by the death of Stalin and the development of neutralism in Europe and Asia and the machinations of Nehru who sought to build a great power in the Indian Ocean to equal the power built by Stalin in Europe and Mao Tze-tung in China.

The rejection of Bulganin's love letter and the language Eisenhower used adds the element of dignity to a proceeding that had become vulgar and cheap. And dignity for a nation is important. It is a concomitant which raises not only the morale of a nation but its morals. It elevates a people to a proper appraisal of its own worth. For too many years, we have permitted ourselves to be humiliated by the propaganda, even in our own country, of foreign powers, not only by Soviet Russia, but by many others, some of them our allies. The time has come to reject not humility but masochism, an imposed masochism which for some becomes a source

If the new tone of Eisenhower's reply to Bulganin persists, we may even begin to teach American history in all our schools as the continuing story of a really great people who conquered a huge continent by hard work and competent thought and love of country. We might put patriotism back in our text-books and drive out those horrible brochures designed to popularize "an ally," Soviet Russia, which did so much to corrupt a generation of our children. For if national dignity is restored, patriotism must be restored. We too can love Mother Earth-our mother earth, although not being essentially pagan, our love for country is more likely to pour upward toward the God in whom we have always trusted.

Feud May Hit Headlines Again Soon WASHINGTON -- The Douglas MacArthur-Harry Truman feud is going to blaze into headlines again

- thanks to Life magazine. Life editors have the advantage of reading Harry Truman's memoirs before anyone else and have been using this to their own advantage. Mr. Truman's first installment on the Marshall mission to China was answered by Life in the same issue in which it was published.

In addition, Life editors slipped Gen. Douglas MacArthur an advance copy of Truman's memoirs which refer to him.

This particular installment is not due to be published until late February, but MacArthur has already written a 5,000-word stinging rejoinder - courtesy of Life editors tically. and his ghost-writer, Gen. Courtney Whitney.

Dulles's One Friend

Reason why John Foster Dulles isn't getting as much bipartisan policy as he wants is that he pins everything on one Democrat, the much-loved elder statesman from Georgia - Senator George. However, a lot of other Democrats don't relish the way George walked out on the Democratic party on tax reduction or other domestic matters last year when the White House invited him to lunch.

That's why George's influence on foreign affairs with other Democrats has diminished.

Auto Dealers' Gripe

Ten thousand "typically American' small businessmen met in the nation's capital this week in the opening gun of a pitched battle for survival

They're the owners of the nation's auto agencies and, like thousands of other small businessmen around the country, they find themselves today on the "brink" of an uncertain future.

The auto dealers didn't sit around twiddling their thumbs and moaning, however. They worked through their powerful organization, the National Automobile Dealers Association

'We're disturbed about the profit situation," explained W. L. Carpenter, a small Ford-Mercury dealer from Pontotoc, Miss., who sells about 175 cars a year. Carpenter employs 18 people, including his son-in-law, and grosses about $500,000 a year.

As for freshmen in junior high school-sixth grade here-47 per cent showed a reading level of fourth grade or lower. In arithmetic, 37 per cent qualified at the fourth-grade level or below.

Both white and Negro teachers agree on these facts, but they also agree that it doesn't necessarily prove that the Negro children have any less intelligence. There is, for example, the suggestion that Negro children in the past have not been given satisfactory education in separate schools and that remedial instruction with "special teachers" hereafter will be necessary. More than 64 per cent of the pupils in Washington schools now are Negroes. The superintendent of schools is asking for money to double the number of "special teach-

An additional reason for the dropoff is given by Dr. Irene C. Hypps, a Negro who is assistant superintendent of schools. She says:

"But, since the heart of the problem is the low economic level of many Negro families, the educational problem won't be solved until the economic problem is solved. I think this will take a great many

Where there is a sincere effort, as in Washington, to handle the matter so that bright children aren't held back by reason of the lag of the less-bright pupils, there probably will be no furor of complaint. But what about states, especially in the South, where there is no wholehearted interest in avoiding racial discrimination and where the school authorities may finally conclude that separate schools will have to be maintained solely on the basis of achievement or mental

"To separate them (Negroes) from mothers of similar age and qualifications solely because of their race generates a feeling of inferiority as to their status in the community that may affect their hearts and minds in a way unlikely ever to be undone.

But if there is an "achievement lag," as the educators call it, and the net effect in some school areas is to put a predominant number of white children in a class with an occasional sprinkling of Negroes, will this not create the same feeling of "inferiority"? Will parents of the Negro children concerned ever be satisfied that the separation is really due to educational qualifications and not solely because of race'

Irrespective of the merits of the dispute concerning the social effects of mixed schools, the legal questions appear to be growing more instead of less complicated. For, after what the tests in the Washington schools show, any form of segregation as between those at an advanced educational level and those lagging behind will be open to suspicion. The burden of proof in each case will be upon the school authorities to prove that it isn't racial discrimination.

This could introduce timidity among teachers and hesitation to classify pupils according to grades of achievement where the racial question is involved.

Likewise, the parents of white children may be petitioning the federal courts some day with the argument that the "psychological effects" upon their children are adverse. It looks as if the Supreme Court will be plagued with the segregation issue for years to its shadow, we will have late

Studies have shown that the groundhog can be awakened at any time and may eat if hungry, or mate if so inclined. With the approach of spring these sensations and urges appear more frequently; consequently, we see more of the animal. The only hibernating men are those who are too lazy to move.

When winter strikes, we must use our wits to keep warm. Man is relatively hairless and without a hirsuite covering could stay warm only in the tropics. But he learned to protect himself by means of clothing and housing and has been able to migrate into temperate and Arctic regions. Man is classified as a warm blooded animal whose temperature remains constant regardless of the out-of-door thermometer reading. Many mechanisms go into action to conserve body heat on exposure to cold. The secretion of swent is reduced and the capillaries in the skin contract to reroute the blood away from the surface into the deeper and more important organs.

Considerable heat is stored also in the tissues, which tide over the person until metabolism increases to meet current demands. The rate rises through exercise, shivering, and the oxidation of food. TOMORROW: Teachers' attitude toward pupils.

In effect Nasser also proclaimed a future Holy War against Israel. There are those in the administration who think Nasser means what he says to his own people, and does not mean what he says to Ambassador Byroads. On top of this, Assistant Secretary of State Allen has been urging Ambassador Eban to persuade the Israeli government to offer some territorial concessions in order to get a peace settlement with Egypt. Eban has been arguing that the Egyptians would not accept the limited concessions proposed by Allen. And Ambassador Byroads has now in effect confirmed the view of Eban, asserting On January 25, Ambassador that the Egyptians will not be satisfied with anything less than the cession of the Southern Negev. The Israelis say they will fight rather than cede the Southern Negev. The British want us to join them in trying to force Israel to make a settlement on the same terms that the Israelis say they will fight to prevent. And so the received him, but also gave him cat's cradle of risks continues to grow more tangled by the day.

In a helicopter, engine deposits cause a more critical problem of power loss than in any other kind of gasoline engine service. Shell's unique gasoline additive, TCP*, is used in the majority of military helicopters today because it has the unique ability of overcoming these deposits.

The same deposits are also a major cause of power loss in all automobile engines. This is particularly true of the higher compression engines which require high octane gasoline.

Because TCP additive overcomes these engine deposits, which increase with daily short-trip driving, only Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP gives you the full benefits of high octane gasoline. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use.

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!
